

Riccardo Serraglio, associate professor of History of Architecture at the University of Campania “Luigi Vanvitelli”, deals with issues related to the knowledge and protection of modern and contemporary architecture. He has participated in numerous international scientific conferences with reports on Renaissance architecture in Southern Italy, on Italian architecture of the eighteenth century, on Social Housing in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. His research, characterized by critical bibliographical and documentary sources, is accepted in editorial collections and specialist scientific journals. His most significant publications include monographs: Architetture per i lavoratori tra Napoli e Caserta. Progetti e realizzazioni dal XVIII al XX secolo (la scuola di Pitagora, 2012); Il “Regio Acquidotto” dell’Acqua Carolina di Caserta (La scuola di Pitagora 2012); Ferdinadopoli (La scuola di Pitagora, 2017).