

Curriculum Vitae MD Luciana Albano

Assistant Professor SSD MED/42

Graduate of Second University of Naples in Medicine and Surgery (M.D.) Summa Cum laude (110 e lode) on 16th October 2001, at the same University on October 2005, She obtained postgraduate course Summa Cum Laude (50 e lode) in Hygiene and Preventive Medicine.

Didactic activity is performed at the Degree Course in Medicine and Surgery based in Naples, in the Degree Courses of Health Professions, as well as in several postgrad Schools in the surgical and services areas at University of Campania "L.Vanvitelli" (Formerly Second University of Naples).

She has held and holds seminars at the following Masters at University of Campania "L.Vanvitelli" (Formerly Second University of Naples): "Management for the Nursing and Midwife Coordination". (1st level) "Planning, Organization and Management in Health" (2nd level) dealing with issues related to the Management and the Health Organization, Vaccination and Prevention of healthcare-associated infections related (HAI).

She has also carried out elective teaching seminars about "vaccines" and "disinfection and sterilization techniques" for students of Medicine, Podology and Audio-oprotesis Techniques of University of Campania "L.Vanvitelli" (Formerly Second University of Naples).

Has participated in several National research projects on Health Prevention and Management. The scientific research has covered and covers epidemiological studies about topics such as vaccinations, infectious risks in health care, prevention of occupational risks.